

Langley Field Naturalists presents
The Behavior & Ecology of Northern Flickers, a keystone species in forest ecosystems.

By: Dr. Karen Wiebe (Professor Emeritus, University of Saskatchewan

Date: March: 20, 2025— Time: 7:30 pm

Northern Flickers are common woodpeckers that many people recognize from their backyards and bird feeders. Dr. Karen Wiebe studied a population of Northern Flickers in central British Columbia from 1997-2014. She will discuss some of the fascinating behavior of these woodpeckers including patterns of parental care, as well as the important role they play in maintaining biodiversity on the landscape.
